

'owene. Var. spelling of 'oene 1, 2.

'ō.wēo. nvs. Red; to redden. See ex., pūnoni.

'owō.'owō. Redup. of 'owē. hō.'owō.'owō. Redup. of hō'owē.

'owō.'owene. Var. spelling of 'owē'oene.

ō.wī, oī. 1. n. A weedy kind of verbena (Verbena litoralis), from tropical America, with square stems 30 cm to 2 m high, toothed oblong leaves, and narrow flower spikes bearing tiny blue flowers. Hawaiians use it for cuts and bruises, applying the juice externally and later sprinkling the affected area with powdered pia root. Also ha'uōwī. (Neal 721-2.) 2. n. The Jamaica vervain (Stachytarpheta jamaicensis), another kind of weedy verbena also from tropical America, similar to the above, but with oval toothed leaves, and tiny blue flowers borne on longer, narrower spikes. It is not used medicinally by Hawaiians. (Neal 725.) 3. nvi. Cry of the bird 'ō'ū; to cry, of the 'ō'ū.

'ō.wili. 1. nvt. Roll, bolt, as of cloth or paper; scroll of binder, as of a sewing machine; skein, coil; to roll up, twist, coil, wave; to fold, as the arms. 'Ōwili palapala (Ier. 36.2), scroll. Ke oho 'ōwili (Isa. 3.24), well-set hair. Ko'i 'ōwili, ko'i wili, gouge-like adze. 2. n. Surfboard of wiliwili wood. 3. n. Powder horn. See holowa'a 'ōwili.

'ō.wili.'ō.ka'i. Same as wili'ōka'i 1, cocoon.

'ō.wili.wili. Redup. of 'ōwili 1. 'Ōwiliwili me ka uila, electrically waved [permanent wave, as of hair].